

There Came a Time 2: Essays on the Great War in Africa

Following our successful conference on 23 November 2019, the team are in the process of putting together the post-conference publication. We are aware that many are unable to attend conferences for funding and visa/travel reasons and so aim to publish papers which were not presented alongside those which were.

There came a Time innovatively brings together articles from across the enthusiast and academic spectrum. All papers are peer-reviewed.

Contributions are invited on any theme related to the Great War in Africa, including legacy topics, research experiences, memory and remembrance as well as traditional military, cultural, economic and political.

Although footnotes are preferred, the minimum requirement is that all submissions must have a reference list.

Submissions should be in English, and can be of any length, however we suggest a maximum of 10,000 words.

If you have a paper you would like considered, or have any questions, please email gwafrica@outlook.com

We look forward to hearing from you by Monday 17 February 2020.

Dr Anne Samson, GWAA

Dr Ana Paula Pires, NOVA School of Social Sciences and Humanities and Institute for Contemporary History

Dr Dan Gilfoyle, Independent